SALVATION MEETINGS, NOON AND

Campbell Discusses this Cheerful Topic. econd of the series of lectures by Elder T. F. Campbell, at the Christian Edder T. F. Campbell, at the Christian Church, on Temple street, was delivered to a largely-increased audience last evening. The speaker stated that the subject of his present discourse was "Death." This might by some be deemed a rather unpleasant bject, but it was not necessarily so. He rposed to show that it might be and ought Death had been called the "King of Ter-rors." This was the poetic view. He inended to take a scientific view of it, and scertain its true nature and forms, acceptascertain its true nature and forms, accepting the ordinary scientific and theological divisions, the mineral, vegetable, animal, spiritual and eternal. In the first we discover no death; the mineral does not die. There is, then, one kingdom in which there is no death. In the second and third, death reigns. Why so? Because these two are derivative; they draw their supplies of life from the mineral, directly or indirectly. Death is a separation from the source of being, with the loss of functional power to derive sustemance therefrom. The death of spirit is, therefore, a separation from God, the source of a spirit's life, with functional inability to draw supplies of life from this, its source.

Man is of twofold nature—animal and spiritual. As an animal he draws sustenance from the meineral through the medium of the vegetable, and the death of the medium is the condition absolute of the life of the animal condition absolute of the draws sustenance from God, minutes, but I finally thought of the winddifferentia between man and beast was spirit; herefore, as an animal, man could live on, while dead as to his spiritual nature. In the day he sinned he died as a man; as an animal he lived on. By this two-fold nature man may die as an animal and live as a spirit. While one life lasts the other may be restored if lost. If both are lost there is no restoration. If an angel sin he is lost absolutely—there is nothing to engraft the new life upon, for his nature is single. If a beast dies he is gone altogether for the same reason. The infidel says: "I would not serve a God who made a hell to putmen into." No, neither would I. But this Bible tells me that God prepared hell for the devil and his angels. Sin was originated by them, and all the ruin and misery of man was wrought by them. Don't they deserve their fate? If any man goes there, it will be of his own free and voluntary determination, and at his own expense. God has bowed the neavens, and Christ and the Spirit and the church labor and plead and suffer, importuning men not to go there; but if they will go, no being can stop them, for they have the power to resist every spirit in the universe, by virtue of their very manhood, because they are men and not beasts; they can choose their lot. Oh! that they would be wise in time.

A STOLEN WATCH.

minutes, but I finally though of the when I reached the ground ist one time in climbing out. When I reached the ground ist one elegated for a detective's office. He is a friend of mine who helped me up north when they put me in an asylum, and I knew that he would not as a print. Elmo and and the took and the pound of the same aroun. There was a ball or party going on, and the yound at my break and consequently I did not wake up until late this morning. I immediately went to Brown's restaurant and ate my breakfast. I then walked up the street and met young belink that Mrs. Perkins locked the door by mistake. That is the only way that I can explain the affair. I am sorry that I have

A STOLEN WATCH.

A Too Ardent Desire to Sell It Gets a Man into Limbo.
H. McCroy was arrested last evening by Officers Lemon and Lynch on a charge of larceny which was filed against him some days ago. The arrest grows out of a rob-bery which was committed in a lodging-house at No. 13 Fort street. A roomer lost house at No. 13 Fort street. A roomer lost a silver watch and $39, and reported the loss to the police station. Yesterday Mrs. C. Wilson, who keeps a second-hand store on First street, notified the officer on duty at the police station that a suspicious-looking character had offered to sell her a silver watch for $2. She did not like his looks and told him to come later in the day. Officer Lynch was detailed to watch for the watch-vender, and he had but a short time to wait when the man came in and again offered to

VOLATILE VERONA.

SHE WAS NOT ABDUCTED, BUT SKIPPED OUT,

ecause She Was Opposed to Having Her Door Locked on the Other Side – Safety Sought in a Ho:el Apartment–Thrilling Episode.

The life of Verona Baldwin, the young lady who shot E. J. Baldwin in the Baldwin Hotel, in San Francisco, several years ago, has been an eventful one. She has strung enough real live romance in her trail to fill several novels, and yet she does not seem to tire of giving people who crave seven-day wonders a chance to gossip. Her latest adventure threw the whole city, or the official portion, into a state of excitement early yesterday morning, and for several resterday morning, and for several lours officers and fly detectives were een rushing around n rushing around town as though a dozen lives depended on the rapidity of their movements. They rushed from place to place, and close in their trail came the dignified Maj. Bell. This latter gentleman seemed to be all excitement, and as he tore up and down the streets, persons who have known him for years could see at a glance that something out of the ordinary run was going on. Finally several reporters joined in the procession, and the fun waxed hot and furious. By gathering a word here and catching an idea at the next corner, it was learned by a TIMES man that Miss Verona Baldwin had been carried off by a lot of bold, bad men. The theory was, that while the young lady with the soul-inspiring eyes was quietly sleeping on her downy couch in the Johnson mansion, on New High street, a number of men stole silently to her window, and like knignts of old, boldly packed the fair one off. Mrs. Perkins, the landlady, visited Miss Baldwin's room early yesterday morning and was astonished to find that the lady was not. Perkins, the landlady, visited Miss Bald-win's room early yesterday morning and was astonished to find that the lady was not in the room and had not slept there. The window had been opened, and from the dust it could be seen that petticoats had been dragged through the window. There were tracks of a decidedly masculine meas-urement on the soft dirt near the window, and the jolly, round-faced landlady, who knows the history of the Baldwin family thoroughly, immediately put "this and that" together and made up her mind knows the history of the Baldwin family thoroughly, immediately put "this and that" together and made up her mind that the principal witness in the Bell-Baldwin case had been stolen away by the agents of Baldwin. She sent her husband off to Bell's office on the double-quick. When he arrived there, all out of breath, he found the younger Bell in the office, but the old man had not come down. Mr. Perkins told his story, and when the slder Bell care in arrived there, all out of breath, he found the younger Bell in the office, but the old man had not come down. Mr. Perkins told his story, and when the elder Bell came in there was great excitement in the office. The Sheriff and all his deputies were put to The Sheriff and all his deputies were put to work on the mystery, as above stated. The search went on, and grew hotter and hotter until Miss Baldwin ran into the arms of young Bell, near Brown's restaurant. Bell was astonished, of course, but he lost no time in making the good news known to his father, and after a little general talk Miss Verona consented to go back to the Johnson mansion. She was not excited to any great extent, but she seemed to late in the afternoon, she seemed to be perfectly satisfied with her surroundings. She appeared in the room with Mrs. Perkins, and did not hesitate to tell her story.

"I don't want to throw any blame on Mrs. Perkins, for I am satisfied now that she had nothing to do with my troubles last night, although I was badly frightened. As near as I can understand the affair it happened in this way: Ever since I came here I have been afraid that they would steal me away and put me in a lunatic asylum. I am not afraid of death, but I do dread the asylum, for I have had a terrible experience. Well, I have been very careful, and I never enter or leave my room without locking the door after me. Whenever we go to dine or take a meal of any kind the door is locked, and Mrs. Perkins always sees that it is locked. Last night she was in my room until late, as is her custom, and when she left the room she must have turned the key on the outside, for when I got up, a few minutes after, to see that the door was properly fastened, what was my surprise to find that it was locked and that the key was on the death of the medium is the condition absolute of the life of the animal; so as a spirit he draws sustenance from God, the medium being Christ Jesus, and the death of the medium is the condition absolute of the life of the spirit. All our life is the product of death. Death gives us food, clothing, house and the soil. It is the means of life and enjoyment. But can a spirit die? God said to Adam: "In the day thou eatest, thou shalt die." Satam said: "Thou shalt not die." Which told the truth?

Animals died long ages before man appeared in the world. Man, as an animal, was liable to the same fate if cut off from the tree of life, which was a vegetable; but as a spirit he could still live if not cut off from God, the source of spirit life; but the differentia between man and beast was spirit; therefore, as an animal, man could spirit; therefore, as an animal, man could live on, while dead as to his spiritual nadoor was properly fastened, what was surprise to find that it was loci and that the key was on outside. I at once remembe that during the day, I overheard some natiking about E. J. and myself in a su clous manner, and I thought they had loc me in for the purpose of sending me to asylum. I was so badly frightened the did not know what I was about for a minutes, but I finally thought of the y dow, and I lost no time in climbing of the surprise of the surprise

A GRAVBACK.

A Restaurant-keeper Swindled on Confederate Bill.

A Restaurant-keeper Swindled on a Confederate Bill.

It was supposed by the most of people that the old Confederate bill had served its day, but it seems that a fellow without the fear of God in his soul has turned up in Los Angeles with a pocketful of old rebel money. He took dinner at a little restaurant on Temple street, just above New High, conducted by a Mrs. C. W. Francis, and after filling himself he stepped up to the counter and boldly threw down a 55 Confederate bill, and received in change 540.76 in gold and silver. He walked out and it was some time before Mrs. Francis learned that she had been swindled. It is not at all surprising, for the rebel note looked as much like a greenback as two peas, and it is doubtful whether there are many persons in town who could have told the difference. Mrs. Francis at once notified the police and they are now on the track of the bold swindler.

Reports Presented from the Val Auxiliary Organizations Through-out Southern California—Pleasant Literary Programme.

The ladies of the Presbyterian churches of Southern California engaged in missionary work met in the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Second and Fort streets, yesterday forenoon. There was a very large attendance of delegates and an interesting day was spent, as the programme will show. The meeting opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. Herriott.

ROAD-IMPROVEMENT CLUB. Dr. Murray's Plan for Getting Good Thoroughfares

Thoroughfares.

Dr. Murray, of the Sierra Madre Villa tract, is agitating the subject of forming a road-improvement club, to be composed of sidents along the foothills from Pasadena eastward. Each member is expected to subscribe $10 a year, to be applied in making and mending roads, under the supervision of the club. The projector expects to start in a conservative way, employing at first only a man and hand-cart. When the organization grows in resources, as undoubtedly it will when its utility is demonstrated, horses may be employed, with plow, scraper and road-machine. There are also visions of sprinkling-carts in the future. The kidea is an excellent one, and many of the most enterprising foothills people are falling into line with it. The plan, if consistently carried out, will certainly result in improved roads. Dr. Murray has already proved himself more efficient than the average Supervisor in the matter of improving Los Angeles' highways, and he is well qualified to lead the new movement. stward. Each member is expected to

THE SMALLPOX.

No New Cases Among Whites in Two Weeks.

Pursuing his investigations in search of possible hidden smallpox, Health Officer Hagan yesterday stumbled upon another nest. It was in one of the indescribable rookeries, of which some still remain on Buena Vista street. The number of the hovel is 384. Here he found a low negro family with four cases—the father, mother and two children. They had been down for some days, and will reach the climax of the disease about tomorrow. They were bundled off to the hospital last night.

Health Officer Hagan said last night: "The discovery of these cases among ignorant and filthy people does not alarm us. It is a significant and encouraging fact that there has not been a new case among white people for two weeks. I lifted every old quarantine in the city today, except that at 621 South Hill street, which they wish to keep on till Saturday."

HURRAH FOR GIBSON!

dal South Hill street, which they wish to keep on till Saturday."

HURRAH FOR GIBSON!

The happiest man in the city is County Recorder Frank A. Gibson. It was supposed on Wednesday that he had the smallpox, and he was removed to a house beyond the western terminus of the Temple-street cable road. Yesterday's TIMES, however, announced the belief of Mr. Gibson's physicician that the case was not one of smallpox. Yesterday settled the matter beyond a doubt. There was no smallpox about it, and Mr. Gibson was taken back to his home. As he entered his own house, a still keener pleasure awaited him. His little boy, Hugh, has been completely paralyzed—the result of a recent attack of measles—and the parents have been wild with anxiety. Yesterday, when Mr. Gibson entered the room, the little fellow—who had not taken a step in three weeks—jumped up and ran to his father. It is now believed that he will fully recover.

There have been no more deaths from smallpox, the total remaining at nine. It is probable, however, that Pullian, one of the hospital patients, will die. He has made a long struggle against a very severe case, and at one time promised to built through.

The house-to-house vaccination is now confined to the Mexican quarters, where the only danger is apprehended. Abundance of fresh vaccine is belng received dailig, and nearly all the vaccinations are 'taking.'

C. W. Clark, of East Los Angeles, was before Justice Austin yesterday, charged with doing business without a license. Ac-cording to the testimony of Collector Shields, he had gone to Clark on three dif-Shields, he had gone to collect his monthly ferent occasions to collect his monthly license fee. Clark refused to pay it, but tendered $1 as the amount he thought he should pay.

This Shields refused to accept, saying that he had no authority to de so, and told Clark that if he thought the license too high that he had no authority to de so, and told Clark that if he thought the license too high he could go before the City Clerk and have it reduced, upon a proper showing. And further told Clark that, if he persisted in his refusal, he would be arrested. Clark (so Shields says) defied any one to arrest him or take him out of his store, and when the warrant wa issued and an officer went to serve it, Clark did not want to come, but told the officer that he would come over soon in his own conveyance.

The officer brought him, however, and his story was that his license had been raised from $1$ to $2$ a month without his knowledge and his business had not increased over what it was before. He had offered to, and still was willing to pay the one dollar a month, but he was not pleased with the way this had been done. As to defying arrest, etc., he thought there was some mistake, though he did not want to come when the officer called for him.

Counsel for The People claimed that the amount of the license cut no figure in the case. The defendant had a plain remedy if he thought the license too high (by going before the clerk), and he was guilty in refusing to pay when called upon so to do. Justice Austin took the case under consideration, and ordered defendant to appear at 9 o'clock this morning. The question may be quite an interesting one to license payers. Complaints have been entered against two or three others for the same offense.

Riverside. MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

RIVERSIDE, March 22.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The bid of Mc-Bean. & Dunn, for building the main outlet sewer for Sewer District No. 1. having been accepted by the city board, work will be commenced upon it in three or four weeks. It is to be com-pleted in three months from signing of contract. The lateral sewers will be put in on Main, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth streets as soon as the main sewer down Market street is com-pleted.

Great interest' is taken in the proposition to supply artesian water, piped for domestic use to Riverside. A meeting of the stockholders of the water company, at the Pavilion, on Saturday, drew out a great variety of plans to effect the much-needed improvement. It will require the expenditure of from $150,000 to $225,000, and many of the citizens feel that it will be so much easier for the city to sell bonds at a low rate of interest that it would be preferable for the city rather than the water company to assume the work. preferable for the city rather than the water company to assume the work. But in other respects the city would be at a disadvantage in the matter, since they could not discriminate, and it is thought must furnish to all citizens, no matter how distant from the mains, thus adding greatly to the expense without corresponding profits. The water company, however, would not be thus embarrassed, since they could deliver in open ditches, as at present, to orchards, and in pipes where it would better suit them. It is a grand undertaking, and the spirit manifested shows that it is likely to carry in some shape. A committee to formulate a plan is now deliberating, and will report at a meeting on Saturday.

At the meeting of the City Trustees on Saturday a proposition was made that if the citizens interested would give a satisfactory bond to reimburse no matter how distant from the mains, that if the citizens interested would give a satisfactory bond to reimburse the city in case of an adverse suit, the board would pass an ordinance declaring liquor saloons a nuisance, and refuse further liceuse. The solitary saloon at Riverside has at present the honor of paying the highest liceuse in the State, $500 a quarter, besides the county liceuse.

DW. H. Holabird, recently managar of the Coronado Beach Company, has moved to Riverside, and he is suspected of having an interest in some of the big real-estate deals of which there are every day new rumors.

Real-estate agents are becoming as plentiful here recently as in Los Angeles and in Pasadena, and land sales more steady than ever in the history of the valley. Several fine orchards have recently changed hands at gratifying figures.

This morning's Herald mentions a "serious case" of smallpox in Alhambra. The true facts in the premises are that a son of J. C. Wallace, whose place adjoins the vineyard of ex-Gov. Stoneman, is "comfortably sick" with a very light attack of varioloid. Mr. Wallace has certainly been criminally negligent in going himself and allowing members of his family to go to and come from Los Angeles after the true nature of the disease was known to him. His neighbors were naturally indignant at his inhuman conduct, and were threatening to take the case into their own hands when Mr. Wallace concluded that "discretion was the better part of valor," and since Saturday has recognized the verbal quarantine put on him by the Supervisors. This is the only case in Alhambra. The patient is doing well and there is not now the slightest feeling of uneasiness among our people.

Glendale and Verdugo.

Glendale and Verdugo. UPWARD TENDENCY OF VALUES AND THINGS.

GLENDALE, March 23 .- [Correspon ence of The Times.] These settlements progress quietly, but surely. Property is being sold for, and is held, at an advance of 50 and 100 per cent. over the estimated values a year ago. This statement does not apply to the price of lots within the limits of the price of lots within the limits of the Glendale townsite, where a large number have been sold at from $250 to $300 per lot. Improvements in the way of buildings are going on constantly, and streets are being graded and waterpipes laid in a way that suggests enterprise and a bright future. The new town hall in Mr. Dutton's store building was first opened to the public on Monday evening last, when it was used for the regular meeting of the Improvement Society. The hall, although still lacking the finishing touches, thus begins its destiny of filling that "long-felt want" of a suffering public that has heretofore been compelled to turn churches and schoolhouses into uses other than those they were originally intended for. There is a strong probability that the Southern Pacific Company will soon erect a depot and other buildings at Glendale, such action having been recommended by the local officers of that company, only awaiting the sanction of the higher authorities to be carried into effect. This station will be about half-way between Los Angeles and Sepulveda, and will, no doubt, assist greatly in the devented and station and the devented and send the send the devented a Glendale townsite, where a large numtween Los Angeles and Sepulveda, and will, no doubt, assist greatly in the de-velopment of this section. Messrs. Rich-ardson and Gilbert have each made a tender of land to the railroad company for depot purposes. Glendale avenue is being widened to eighty feet. Other roads are being opened up through the valley.

The survey for the proposed "dummy" road has been completed, and the actual building of the road is thought to be only a question of a few moaths' time, as there are enterprising and capable men interested in the project.

There are possibly some disadvantages connected with country life, but there is one thing for which your correspondent always thanks his lucky stars when he passes along the riverstars when he passes along the river-front near the San Gabriel Valley Railroad bridge and sees men and teams busily engaged in piling up sand, and that is, that he is not a city taxpayer! Year after year, every rain that swells the stream in the river-bed sweeps away a bank of sand, piled up under the direction of the City Fathers under the direction of the City Fathers to turn the water into the Zanja Madre, and time after time, unvarying lack of enterprise, the same old sand is piled up again by the same crew of paisanos, who apparently have lived for years by shoveling up this sand at the expense of the municipality of Los Angeles. But, being a countryman, I say no more on this sad subject.

The death of Capt. Ford, by the accident at the Downey-avenue bridge, cast a shadow of sorrow over this comcident at the Downey-avenue bridge, cast a shadow of sorrow over this community, in which the quiet Captain was well known. He was a quiet, unassuming hero of two wars, in appearance and manner a perfect soldier of the old-school, and one who might have worn upon his shoulder the insignia of a higher rank, had he been willing to accept the honor. His neighbors honored the old soldier for his service to his country and his blameless private life, lament his tragic fate and 'sympathize with his worthy widow in her loss.

The new literary society halls are being finished up in excellent style. The young ladies hall has been carpeted with elegant brussels carpet, and is indeed a thing of beauty. The young men, though not having done as much as the young ladies, yet have over $300 in their treasury. These halls are

The responsibility of organization and public effort in debate, oration and essays is there placed definitely on the students where they are peers of each other. MEDICAL INHALATION COMBINED WITH CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDIES.

Our treatment of the diseases of the respira-tory passages consists in the employment of Medical Inhalation, for its direct effects on the diseased organs; and, at the same time, adopting such hygienic measures, and admin-istering such medicines by the stomach as will most effectually purify the blood, give tone to the nervous system, and build up and strengthen the general constitution. In other words, we employ combined local and general treatment.

words, we employ combined local and general treatment.

What is Medical Inhalation? Before stating briefly what Medical Inhalation is, we propose, in as few words as possible, to state-clearly what tits not.

Medical Inhalation is not a cure-all, a nestrum, or a panacea. It is not a Specific Remedy for any disease. It is not a quack medicine, advertised to cure any or all the ills that flesh is helr to, and intended to fill the pockets of its proprietors. It is not a talisman, whose possession issures health to its possessor, without the intervention of either sense or judgment. Medical Inhalation is none of these things.

Medical Inhalation is simply and solely a method of taking medicines by inhaling or of its proprietors. It is not a talisman, whose possession insures health to its possessor, without the intervention of either sense or yudgment. Medical Inhalation is none of these things.

Medical Inhalation is simply and solely a method of taking medicines by inhaling or breathing them into the lungs, instead of swallowing them into the lungs, instead of swallowing them into the stomach. By Inhalation the proper medicines are applied directly to the scat of the disease, in the nose, throat or lungs; and it is clear to every reasoning person how peculiarly applicable inhalation is in the disorders of the organs named. If you have scalded or burned the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the long of the surface of the body, or wounded any lith or uncounterform the surface of the long of vaporous form, in which form as is well known, medicines act most powerfully. How much greater, for example, is the effect, of a drachm of chloroform, when inhaled or breathed, than man times the quantity when swallowed into the stomach. The same is true of chlorine, of iodine, and of many other substances. By inhalation the medicine is not poured into the stomach. The same is true of chlorine, of iodine, and of many other substances. By inhalation the medicine is not poured into the stomach, and thence sent wandering through the system in search of the lungs, can doubt that in inflammation and ulceration of the situates and sirrectly is applied directly to the diseased organ. Who, after studying the anatomy of the lungs, can doubt that

Physicians who were educated twenty years ago or more, and who have not kept up with the times it. the advance in medical science, have very little idea of the great importance of the control of the contr sician who is not weil prepared and the roughly equipped with everything necessary for the administering of the proper remedies by the method of Inhalation.

The numerous cures effected by Inhalation in cases seemingly past all help, and the uniform success attending its use in diseases of the respiratory organs, renders to bligatory on every honest physician to at once apply himself to gain a practical knowledge of the Inhalation or, if that is not possible, he is at least bound to decline to treat such cases.

Among the most eminent physicians of the age who are fully awakened to the value of Medical Inhalation in these diseases are the following: The celebrated Dr Burdon-Saunderson; Dr. La Roohe, of the Peris Academy of Medicine; Dr. Frederick Langhaus, of Berilin; Drs. Klebs and Tommassi-Crudell; Sir Archibald Dickson, of Edinburgh, Scotland; Dr Eichler, Dr. Cameron, Dr. Gurdon Buck, Prof. Albert Lehert, the celebrated Dr. Hughlings Jackson, the venerable Dr. Robert Dickinson, Prof. Thierfelder, Spencer Wells, Dr. Hitton Flagge, Dr. G. P. Wood, Drs. Fritsch and Hitzig, Dr. Fothergill, Dr. Richard Thompson, Dr. R. S. Carpenter, Drs. Anstie, Ball, Puller, Lascereaux, Krauss, Huguenie, Heller, Orth, Corrigan, Fenwick and many others. With scarcely a single exception every medical authority of eminence recognizes the wonderful potency of this save method, and the coming generation of physicians are certain to be thoroughly educated therein. At present it is only a few physicians here and there who have made "Diseases or Respiration" a life study that are fitted in any way to employ the wonderful resources of Medical Inhalation in the cure of these diseases.

For five years the celebrated Dr. I. H. Bennet was pathologist to the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, and in his great work on "Consumption" he makes the following statement: "During this period I made upwards of 200e post-mortem examinations of persons dying from various diseases, and I was constantly meeting with cases in which I found cavities in the lungs from consumption, which had evidently healed up or cicatrized years before the death of the subject. Nature did not seem to have been successful in restoring the wasted lung-substance, but the cavities were dried up, the progress of the disease arrested, and the subject lived for years, with diminished lung power, it is true, but otherwise in good health."

California, has not received this present season the average annual amount of rainfall. The season is, therefore, somewhat backward, and the growth in some directions is, in a measure, received has been sufficient to prevent any perceptible diminution of the general prosperity of Southern California. There will be no failure of any crops, although our harvest of grain and hay will be somewhat less than the average. But in consequence of this, there will be no financial pressure, no hard times. The country at large, no less than metropolitan Los Angeles, will keep steadily on in the way of prosperity and rapid development. We shall have enough, and to spare, of all that is necessary to sustain life and a healthy condition of finances. Our markets will not be lacking in any of our native productions. On the dryest lands our great irrigating ditches can supply the lack of natural moisture. Our system of irrigation is so much more perfect and extensive than it was a few years ago that we could easily experience a very dry year with comparatively little loss or inconvenience.

But these really dry years, which were once such a check to the prosperity of the State, we believe to be a thing of the state, we believe Los Angeles, together with the rest of California, has not received this present season the average annual amount of rainfall. The season is, therefore, somewhat backward, and the growth in some directions is, in a measure, retarded. But the amount of rain received has been sufficient to prevent any perceptible diminution of the general prosperity of Southern California. There will be no failure of any grows, although our harvest of grain changes, the trying experiences of other days will not be likely to be repeated. Southern California is no longer a dry country, liable to extreme drouth. Every year is destined to bring rain sufficient for her harvests. We may look, then, for no natural hindrances to our steady advancement, no considerble drawback to our prosperity.

The southern portion of our State has already become too well known to suffer any serious damage from misrepists who have visited us, and enjoyed the pleasures of our southern winter: who have reveled in its welcome sunshine and breathed the fragrance of its flowers; who have rejoiced in abundant fruits, its balmy airs and invigorating atmosphere, cannot be deluded by any malicious misrepresentation into disbelieving what their own eyes have seen. The jealous attacks of the north upon us will all be in vain, and result ultimately to their own is into a dispersion. to their own injury.

In this age where travel is so general, and so large a proportion of it is in the direction of Southern California, misrepresentation and outspoken falsehood are the weakest weapons that can be used against us. The animus of their intent is at once apparent. It is impossible to conceal it.

The rapidity with which this section is growing is proof positive of the harmlessness of the assaults made upon it. Hardly a week passes but som new town is born, or some great tract is subdivided for settlement. The rapidity with which such tracts are sold is an evidence of general faith in the future of this entire portion of California. It is a reliable assurance that Southern California has passed beyond the un-certain period of a "boom" into an era of permanent and healthy growth. Her incoming tide of immigration canignored. Nature here is at her best. Her skies are warm and sheltering. climate is health-giving. Her summer sea-breezes are a cooling tonic. Her are inexhaustible. It takes but a few years to make a home surrounded by every natural beauty. A half a decade of years will give productive or chards and vineyards. A single year will supply green hedges and an infinite variety of bloom. Those who are old can come and make homes and enjoy their tree growth and their fruits be fore they pass from the stage of actions Summer and winter alike, the nursing warmth of the sun is bestowed, and the growing season lasts throughout the year. Every month has its own har-

It is not strange, then, that Southern California presents such magical charms to those accustomed to the changes and severity of the Atlantic States, or that her fame has gone abroad even into the Old World, until THERE is a tremendous rush of it has become the synonym for all that freight from the East to Pacific Coast is desirable in the way of climatic comforts and productiveness, and you might as well attempt to convince a man with two good eyes that he cannot see at all, as te undertake to convince those who have seen Southern California, and those to whom they have told the story of what they have seen, that she is not a land to be desired.

Northern California's efforts to accomplish her own upbuilding through depreciation and misrepresentation of this section of the State will not prove successful. It will work to her own injury rather than to that of prosperous and progressive Southern California.

By Telegroph to The Times.

Nashville (Tenn.), March 24.—[By the Associated Press.] A very large audience listened to a speech, tonight, delivered by Senator Sherman on invitation of the Republican members of the Legislature of Tennessee. Sherman said he had accepted the invitation believing "that a fair presentation made to the people of Tennessee without distinction of party, or of aims and principles of party, both past and for the future, might induce them to join with us in a public policy that will contribute to a public policy that will contribute to the interests of the people of Tennessee and of the whole country more and greater benefits and advantages than can possibly be conferred upon them by the Democratic party. I have felt that the differences that grew out of the war now hold a large body of honest and patriotic citizens of the South from cobperating with the Republican party, which, in my judgment is in sympathy with us, and that perhaps, I might be able to dissipate these prejudices by a frank statement of the views which have actuated the Republican party in the past, and thus bring us into cooperation in measures tending to advance the common interests and prosperity of our country. At all events I feel confident that the people of Tennessee, who from the very earliest settlement have been distinguished for their courage and independence, will give a stranger among them a fair hearing for honest opinions."

After dwelling upon the lessons of his political life, Sherman said: "State rights as distinguished from national authority have been a disturbing element in American politics. So far as the people at largeboth of State and Nation—are the convenient agencies for the exercise of distinct and separate powers for the common good to individual citizens, they are the guardians of distinct and separate powers for the common good to individual citizens, they are the guardians of distinct and separate powers for the common good to individual citizens, they are the people at largeboth of State and Nation—are the guardians of distinct and separate in the trinity of the universe, are in friendly cooperation. But it is the people, the whole people, and nothing but the people, the whole people, and nothing the they are not hostile spheres, but, like planets moving in the grand harmony of the universe, are in friendly cooperation. But it is the people of the State of Tennessee, you may find in this the germ of the controversy fought out in the war. If I understand the principal soft in the trinity of the North hear

State can only be enforced through the State or national tribunals, and when public opinion is intolerant, and voters will not do their duties as citizens, either white or black may be without remedy for the grossest wrong, except the right to migrate to where his rights will be respected. Our Constitution is based upon the idea that such denial of rights is impossible, and I trust that the time is not far distant when the people of every State will feel it to be both just and expedient that every citizen of the State shall be protected in the free and equal enjoyment of every right and privilege conferred by the Constitution of the United States. The Republican party is pledged to this policy, and though it will use no unconstitutional means to secure rights, it would be false to its principles if it does not use all its moral legal power to that end. No wrong can be done to that end. No wrong can be done to that end. I was a signal to the summer of the community at large. I was glad to hear, in passing through several of the Southern States, conservative citizens say that public sentiment now revolts at the unlawful methods to defraud the free exercise of equal rights of citizens that have been adopted in several States and are still practiced in what are known as the black counties of the South. So long as such methods are resorted to there will be the keen sense of wrong and injustice to the injured parties, and those who practice such offenses will in the end suffer for it. Sectional feeling will continue to exist as long as large masses of people, whether poor or rich, white or black, are denied their rights to share in self-government. But there is another ground upon which I prefer to base my appeal to the South for justice and fair play to the African race. It was recently stated in debate by Senator Vest of Missouri, that when our wives and children were in their hands during the war, they acted so as to make every man in the South their friend, who had one particle of manhood about him. If this be so ment and power of one great and united country."

After touching on the financial problem the said: "One of the great objects of the formation of the Government was to secure improvements for commerce. The great cities of the country think that all rivers and harbors are unimportant, except their own, and yet the commerce of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers is much greater in quantity and value than the commerce with the United States and foreign nations."

In conclusion he said: "No portion of the public expenditure is more prolific of How the Celestials Deal with the Tramp Question.

San Francisco, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Belgic, which arrived today from China and Japan, brought news of a dreadful tragedy at Shih Chen, China, twenty miles northeast of Hangebow. Over 300 tramps appeared at the village and greatly irritated the inhabitants. The villagers inveigled the whole body into a temple, and during the night set fire to it. Only thirty occupants of the building escaped. The remainder were burned to death.

It is reported that the Chin ment has concluded a loan of 5,000,000 marks with German financiers, at 5½ per cent. It is stated that the Bank of Japan will-increase its capital from 10,000,000 to 20,000,0000 yen. The yen is about equal to a dol-

REDWOOD CITY, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.] In the Moore-Hopkins breach-of-promise suit, defendant was placed on the witness stand today. He testified to knowing Mrs. Moore first in 1878, having visited her at her rooms on Market street, for the purpose of finding out about a hair restorative, kept for sale by Mrs. Moore. At her suggestion, he permitted her to rub his head with the lotion. He went to see her at Market street and at He went to see her at Market street and at her residence frequently, generally twice a week, and had his head rubbed. He gave her money from time to time, generally about 850 a month. He kept up these payments until Mrs. Moore, or friends, asked for larger sums. Mr. Hopkins denied in toto that he had promised to marry Mrs. Moore, except in talking nonsense, and said that the marriage proposal described by Mrs. Moore in her testimony, was a mistake. Defendant denied having given Mrs. Moore $1000 in one sum previous to his marriage.

A walver of all claims by Mrs. Moore in consideration of $2000 was read and admitted in evidence. Defendant rested his case. He went to see her at Market street

In rebuttal, the plaintiff was placed on the stand. In regard to the renunciation paper, she denied having of her knowledge executed that instrument. Both sides closed, and arguments will be made to-

A Missing Man. HARRISBURG (Or.), March 24.—Schuyler HARRISBURG (Or.), March 24.—Schuyler Ford, a young man 21 years of age, stepson of Peter H. Wigle, of Harrisburg, disappeared from this vicinity about a month ago. Nothing has been heard of him since. He had purchased a lot in Coburg, upon which he had built a house to run a saloon, for which business he had bargained with J. H. Butler, of this place, for a stock of goods. When last seen he had upon his person $700 in money and Albany bank checks. His pistol and overcoat remain at the hotel uncalled for. His friends enterchecks. His pistol and overcoat remain at the hotel uncalled for. His friends enter-tain fears that he has been murdered for his money. Notwithstanding diligent in-quiry and search, no trace of the missing young man has been found.

Telegraph to The Times.

ONDON, March 24.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the House of Commons evening the debate on the motion for ency for the Coercion Bill was resumed Gladstone, who referred to the unpresented position of the House, which has eady sat for two months, during which, said, its independent initiative had been pressed. Even now the Conservatives alted over the prospects of passing a monforcing the House to an absolute surder of its whole time until a bill of an aremely severe character had been carried. retofore, in asking special legislation for ultra with crime in Ireland, the ministers insed a terrible prevalence of crime and a terrible prevalence of crime and tened social order. Was that the ow? No; the House had been told that the number of agrarian offenses prior to the passage of Forster's coercion act exceeded the highest number since. A crime then, however, of a different character from that which the government now fought was present. The crime consisted in combining to cause a reduction of rent. [Irish cheers.] Even the evidence which the government put before the House showed this crime restricted to demands for a just abatement of ent. Never had any former coercion act been resisted by a majority of the members from Ireland. [Oheers.] Now was the protest against coercion from an overwhelming majority of Irish members. [Cheers.] Had the government any just claim for demanding coercion, or urgency for the new epressive measures? After appointing a commission to examine on the spot the rent question and the evils arising from land laws, the government now put aside the recommendations of the commission and asked Parliament for increased power to make laws still more offensive to the general sense of the Irish people.

Chamberlain said that experience showed that the former remedial measures failed. The condition of Ireland was bad as ever. Admitting that previous coercive acts had not removed its discontent, they at least resulted in the maintenance of law and order. Admitting that the present disorder is only limited in extent, is that a reason why it should be allowed to continue? They must remember that the machinery of intimidation is so perfect that the committal of outrages is unnecessary. [Cheers.] He agreed that it was a most urgent duty of government to deal with the land question at the earliest moment, but he thought the over meat unjustly accused of vagueness in reference to their proposals, because they could not be expected to develop them on a motion for urgency. It would be better for the administration of justice to face the remedial measures announced. They say that the bill is to ever meat the solid stream of the protect the mass of the protect the missing precedence of the Crimes Bill. If the Land Bill m credit.

On motion being made for an adjournment, W. H. Smith expressed the hope that the debate would be finished tomorrow.

Parnell said that he hoped it would not be understood that the Irish members assented to this suggestion.

GLABTONE CARRIES HIS POINT.

Gladstone's denunciation of the use of the cloture curtain in the debates on the urgency motion and coercion bill has forced the government to reconsider the subject. The ministry has decided to permit a prolongation of the discussion, but will insist that the House forego its Easter vacation. The coercion bill will be passed before the holidays.

In response to a circular asking their lews on the subject, the Irish Wesleyan ainisters, with six exceptions, replied that ley opposed home rule.

nas been forged, but the forged paper has been estimated as high as three-fourths of the entire amount of the ascertained liabilities. In addition to the amount mentioned there is supposed to be a large amount of paper afloat which bears only the firm's name. A rumor that James Hunter took a steamer for Brazil yesterday gained ground this morning, as nothing has been heard from him since Tuesday, when he left the city, ostensibly for New York.

President Rammell, of the Mechanics' National Bank, says his bank has notes of James & John Hunter, bearing James Long's name, to the aggregate of $00,000, but Long is not yet able to decide which bore true, or which forged signatures. "All he could tell us was that he had memoranda in a bill book of all the Hunter paper he was on. Long is secured by mortgage for $100,000. I don't know whether James Hunter can pay or not, but I am pretty sure he will commit suicide. I don't think he has the moral courage to come back and face the muslc,"

The theory is that when certain notes

The theory is that when certain notes matured, James Hunter first resorted to the desperate scheme of forging James Long's signature. Rich Ores-Observations of an Old Miner-Capital Necessary.
[Sun.1]
The following letter has been addressed by a prospector of thirty years' experience to the manager of the San Diego agency at Los Angeles. It con-tains much of interest and value:

I am informed by a friend that is an I am informed by a friend that is an acquaintance of yours, and who is recently from Los Angeles, that you are anxious to aid in the development of our (San Diego's) mineral resources, and wish some data to give you a base for operations.—I respectfully submit:

First—I am a prospector of over thirty years' practical and intelligent observation of the causes which produce visible effects in certain geological structures which produce, and which contribute to the productions, of gold and silver.

contribute to the productions, of gold and silver.
Second—That the mineral belt which fllanks the eastern slopes of the Cuyamaca range of mountains, known as the Julian Mining District, is mainly composed of those stratas which are the richest contributions to the productions of gold, though at times or at places metamorphic in their conditions, are nevertheless primitive.

Third—That the Julian Mining District has not been ably nor intelligently trict has not been ably nor intelligently prospected; that its mines, though many have but in few instances been ably and intelligently conducted.

Fourth—That its ore quartz is not

Fourth—That its ore quartz is not free milling as is generally considered; that a very large percentage of its gold is held in combination with certain deleterious mineral material substances, and when in that condition is not saved by any of the milling processes now in use at the mines.

Fifth—That the mines of Julian have reserved by men of canital

Fifth—That the mines of Julian have never been operated by men of capital, although the returns from the mines have been largely in excess of the labor and capital invested; indeed, the little life the town of San Diego had before the boom and much of the counties was mainly due to the production of the Julian mines.

Sixth—Several mines which have been worked continually for many years, and by poor owners, need the aid of capital to assist in the erection of proper reduction plants and the aid of capital to assist in the erection of proper reduction plants and the working of the mines more extensively and by the latest improved methods. Seventh—That the gold ore of the Julian Mining District has yielded a greater percentage of gold bullion per ton than any similar area of quartz mining in this or any other State or Territory in the Union.

The Kentucky Statesman Becoming

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat expresses an undeniable truth when it says that the country is weary of the Kentucky statesman. His honor, as it complains, is too frequently at stake, and he is too ready to shed gore with his mouth if any one ventures to disagree with him on a matter of online. and he is too ready to shed gore with his mouth if any one ventures to disagree with him on a matter of opinion. When Senator Hoar ventured to criticise Speaker Carlisle, who is a Kentucky statesman, for his Czar-like assumption of authority over the House of Representatives, Senators Beck and Blackburn, who are also Kentucky statesmen, jumped to their feet and proclaimed that the "honah of a Kentucky gentleman was assailed, sah," and that he was an honest man, sah, whom nobody but a coward could assail, and intimated that Mr. Hoar would not dare to repeat his criticism in the Speaker's presence. What Mr. Hoar said was that Mr. Carlisle had denied the right of free speech to members of the House for the reason that he disagreed with their opinions, and was afraid that the majority of the House did not. There is no doubt that Mr. Carlisle did do just that thing, and Mr. Hoar's protest was that thing, and Mr. Hoar's protest was perfectly just. It was no answer to the charge and no justification of his action to rant about his "honah." Kentucky to rant about his "nonan." Kentucky statesmen may be above the laws, but they are not above criticism. A little further display of arrogance will retire them to a back seat, from which they can watch somebody else run the universe.

Grave Doubts. [San Diego Union.]

There exists grave question whether the maintenance of the Los Angeles immigration agencies does not cost more than they profit. Indeed, it is the opinion of men whose judgment in such matters is valuable, that it does not pay to maintain there such costly establishments as those of the season drawing to its close. A convenient office, in charge of one good man, and properly supplied with means of in-fermation, is believed to be all that is demanded. We have been informed by persons on the ground that in case where agencies are manned by more than one, it sometimes happens that more attention is given to private speculation than the business of the speculation than the business of the office. Private schemes are sometimes prosecuted at the expense of the work of the agency. Riverside closed its Los Angeles agency two weeks ago, before the money subscribed for carrying it on was exhausted. It was in charge of one man, a very good one, and was closed because he did not think it would pay to longer keep it open. Some of the agents seem to have been quite as diligent in advertising themselves as in prosecuting the ing themselves as in prosecuting the purposes of the agency.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Growl from Pasadena.
PASADENA, March 23.—[To the Editor of The Times.]—Will you please mention in your paper that the "so-called theater train" left on Tuesday evening not only before the theater was over, but even before schedule time? Brush them np a little for Pasadena's sake.

The following sailor's yarn, which smacks a little of both fresh and salt water, is now going the rounds: "A spanking breeze was driving the ship, everything drawing alow and aloft, when the cry, 'Man overboard!' startled the ship's company. The captain came on deck, and looking over the taffrail at the rapidly-receding object, and observing the good speed the ship was making, said: 'Poor fellow, God help him; I'm sorry for him, but we must take advantage of this breeze in the interest of the owners.' Just then a sailor, who had been on the lookout, ran aft and said: 'Captain, it was not a man, but it's a hog.' 'Aha!' said the captain; 'hard a-port, back the main-yard, clear away the boat, and save that hog.'"

The brand, span new Amoskeag fire engine, to be known henceforth as the "J. Kuhrts, No. 3," which was received Wednesday last, was taken out for a trial yesterday afternoon. Members of the Fire Department and representatives of the city government, as well as about 200 other as usual with new machinery, there were several hitches in the working, but in this case no serious difficulty was encountered. The fireman put a little too much coal in the fire-box, and hence the time of getting up steam was eight minutes instead of six, as it should have been. Then there was a remnant of oil left in the boiler as a legacy of the workshop, and, in boiling, the water frothed and bubbled over the top of the smoke-stack. The place of trial—corner of Main and Requens streets—was badly chosen, also, as the four-inch hydrant connection at that point is too small to furnish a supply for the "J. Kuhrts" when operated up to its fullest capacity.

Two streams were turned on, but they failed to throw water over 100 feet, and one of them was shut off. The engine was then given full scope and it fairly danced, but failed to throw the water 300 feet. It is thought that a fair test will prove that the Kuhrts can throw a large stream over 250 feet, and today, at 3 o'clock p.m., it will be taken to the old Beaudry Water Works ground, where a plenty of water can be had from the abandoned reservoir. The engine seemed to work well yesterday, with the exception of the lack of water, and the internal frothing.

The Kuhrts is as handsome a machine as was ever brought to Los Angeles. The workmansfilp is beyong reproach, and all of the most modern attachments and improvements are present. Among these may be men timed to the forman. The importance of this comes in when the hoseman wishes to penetrate directly to the location of a fire without applying the water until he reaches it. Many and many a stock of goods has been rulned by the delinging stream when its application was worse than useless. With the cutoff attachment the engine sort to the place of execution and turns a thumb-lever, when out rushes the stream, the return valve at the engine being automatically cut off. All of the other engines are to be furnished with this valuable attachment.

Besides its useful features, the ornamental finish of the Kuhrts is f

An Exciting Melee. There was a queer entanglement of horses and vehicles on First street, between Main and Spring, early yesterday afternoon. A young horse, one of the team of T. J. Kerns, of Downey, the team of T. J. Kerns, of Downey, hitched to a light wagon and tied at the curb, got one of his hind feet between the spokes of a light buggy standing alongside. The frightened animal kicked, floundered and squealed, like a pig in a fence, creating a general excitement and a rush of spectators. The horse attached to the light buggy also became frightened and made a lively use of his heels. For a few minutes there was confusion worse confounded, but bystanders seized the excited animals and quieted them. Mr. Kerns's horse, whose foot was speedily extricated, showed some bad scratches and contusions on his leg, but luckily the bone was not broken.
